SIR—In compliance with law, I have the honor to submit herewith my report for the year ending December 31st, 1891.

I am, very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

JAMES D. GLENN,
Adjutant General.

ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

ADJUTANT GENERAL.

The North Carolina State Guard now consists of thirty-one companies of Infantry, organized into four regiments; one troop of Cavalry; two batteries of Naval Artillery, organized into a battalion; and one company of Infantry (colored); numbering in the aggregate (including officers of the General Staff and Brigade and Regimental Staffs) 1,586 officers and men. This is an increase over the number reported last year of 108, which is very encouraging, and shows that there is a steady growth in the military spirit of the State.

NEW COMPANIES.

Two new companies have been received during the year, namely, the Queen City Guards and the Cleveland Guards. They were both assigned to the Fourth Regiment, and lettered respectively companies E and H. I have applications from parties in several other towns in the State asking to form new companies. I have sent them enlistment-rolls, and if they comply with the rules and regulations governing the admission of new companies I hope they will be received. There is a mistaken idea on the part of many that the number of companies is limited to thirty. This impression prevails because the appropriation is limited to thirty companies. There is no limit to the number of companies, the only limitation being in section 3285 of The Code, which says: "The State Guard shall, in time of peace, be restricted to five thousand four hundred men." At the time of the passage of the act limiting the appropriation to thirty companies there were thirty-one companies, and it was clearly the intention of the act to distribute the appropriation among the thirty best companies. I sincerely hope the recommendations of our most efficient Inspector General can be carried out, and the number of companies be increased to forty during the next year. I feel sure the next Legislature, seeing the needs of the service and the high standard attained, will increase the appropriation so as to include forty companies and batteries. It is very important that the number of men in the Guard be considerably increased, in order to enable us to continue to draw the present appropriation allowed by the General Government, as the late Secretary of War, in his annual report, recommends that the appropriation be paid the States in proportion to the number of "organized militia," and not according to the number of Congressmen, as at present. Secretary Proctor says:

"The present method of allotment of the annual appropriation of $400,000 for arming and equipping the militia, which is prescribed by the act of February 12, 1887 (24 Stats., 401), and which gives to each State an amount proportionate to its Congressional representation, is not such as to produce the best results. The aid given different States is very disproportionate. The amount of Government aid received by some States is not more than half that received by others that maintain double the number of men in their National Guard.

"There is no inducement for the maintenance of a greater number of militia than is actually required by the law, but rather the reverse, if economy be consulted. The allotment as now made is not based upon what the States do in return for the appropriation, but what they ought to do. It would be better to help those who help themselves. If the appropriation, or even one-half of it, was distributed upon the basis of the effective force of the National Guard maintained by the several States, it would better accomplish its purpose of encouraging that organization."

Now, under the present allotment, the State of North Carolina, for the year 1891, with 1,478 organized militia, drew in arms, etc., from the United States Government $10,135.73, while South Carolina, with 5,213 men, only drew $8,292.87. Now, if the recommendations of Secretary Proctor are adopted by Congress, then North Carolina would only get $5,527, and South Carolina would draw $19,496.62. So it is really to our interest to increase the number of men. Hereafter the supplies drawn will be only arms, equipments, ammunition and uniforms—what is absolutely necessary for the maintenance of the Guard in its present high state of perfection—so the present quota allowed by law will supply the needs of the service.

A board of officers of the United States Army are now at work upon a new magazine rifle that will be adopted for the use of the army. I have no doubt, from what I have been reliably informed, that when this new rifle is adopted the United States Government will take up the present Springfield rifle and supply the new magazine gun.

NAVAL MILITIA.

Great interest is being manifested in most of the States having a sea-coast in the organization of a Naval Militia, and the present Secretary of the Navy has taken great interest in the matter, and the last Congress passed an act appropriating $25,000 to be distributed among the States having a Naval Militia. Some of the best citizens of Charlotte were anxious to organize a battery of light artillery, but finding the State could not supply the guns and equipments for a battery, they then organized a battalion of Naval Reserves, and will be armed with the new Lee magazine rifle. The battalion is composed of over one hundred of the best citizens of Charlotte, and have chosen as their Lieutenant Commander a highly educated and accomplished officer, who is a graduate of the United States Naval Academy. I have had to visit the Navy Department several times at Washington in the interest of this battalion. I have met with the utmost kindness and courtesy from all the officers of the Department, especially from the Assistant Secretary, Mr. Soley, and from Lieutenants Colby and Cowles, of the United States Navy.

I have been assured that one or more vessels will be furnished at such time as we wish for the purpose of giving thorough instruction in handling the guns and managing the ships. I will arrange to have the battalion go into camp next June, in order to receive the practical instruction to be gained only in this way.

OUR LATE COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF.

On the 7th of last April the Guard was called upon to mourn the loss of their Commander-in-Chief, His Excellency Daniel G. Fowle, who died very suddenly at his residence in the city of Raleigh. As expressed in General Orders issued by you on the 9th of April—

“The State mourns the loss of one whose lofty patriotism and unswerving devotion to her interests had won for him the confidence and admiration of her people, and her citizen soldiers will ever hold in constant remembrance his invaluable services and regard for their welfare. Thus has passed away a man of pure life, a Christian soldier, an official of stainless integrity, distinguished by eminent services in the various departments of the State Government.”

CHANGES.

The only change made in any organization during the year was the transfer of the Hornet's Nest Riflemen, of Charlotte (Company E, Fourth Regiment), to the Second Regiment, as Company G. This company having applied for a transfer, the petition was forwarded to me by the Regimental Commander disapproved. As no reason for asking the change was given, I could not approve it myself, so I forwarded it to the then Commander-in-Chief, who returned it to me with an indorsement directing me to inquire into the reasons prompting this application, and to report whether in my opinion the good of the service required the transfer to be made. I visited Charlotte, and after consulting many of the best citizens of the place, all of whom thought the company should be transferred, I became satisfied it was for the best interest of the service that the transfer be made; so I reported accordingly. Time has since shown that the transfer was, indeed, for the good of the service, for this company, with new life and zeal, has made such progress that now it stands at the very head of the list of companies in the report of the Inspector General, and a new company has been organized in Charlotte to take the place of this one in the Fourth Regiment, which bids fair to be one of the best in the State.

There have been a great many changes in the officers of the Guard during the year, owing to change of residence or business, though not more than usually take place in each year. The greatest loss has been in the resignation of two efficient and experienced officers of the General Staff who had given years of service to the Guard, but their places were filled by the promotion of their assistants—officers who thoroughly understand the needs of the service, and who have taken hold with zeal and earnestness, determined to carry it to the highest state of perfection. The recommendations made by them are in the line of progress and for the best interests of the Guard.

TRANSPORTATION.

The various railroads in the State have given us rates at two-thirds of a cent per mile each way for troops attending encampments. This is a lower rate than is ever granted any other body of men for any purpose whatever. The railroads agreed to give us the same rate for 1891, but gave me notice they could not grant it again. As no Legislature meets before 1893, there was no hope of any increase of the appropriation; and as the present appropriation barely paid the transportation at the old rate, I laid the matter before Mr. R. D. Carpenter, Commissioner of the Associated Railways, and explained to him how it would be impossible to hold an encampment in 1892 if the rate was increased. That gentleman very kindly agreed to bring the matter up before the Associated Railways, and I am glad to say he has written me the old rate will be continued for next year, "in view of the fact that the Legislature of the State would not convene before 1893." I feel the thanks of the State are due Mr. Carpenter and his associates, for without a continuance of the rate we could not hold an encampment; yet I know, in some instances, the men were transported at a loss to the railroads. All the railroads made special arrangements for moving the troops to and from encampment except the Carolina Central Railroad. This company failed to hold its train the morning the troops left camp, causing the companies along that road to remain over a day in Wilmington. As the superintendent had been notified by me of the date the troops would leave, and had been requested to hold his train, I felt it was an imposition upon the men to be kept over at their own expense; so I preferred charges against the railroad to the Railroad Commissioners; they referred the matter to the general manager, Maj. John C. Winder—who has ever been a warm friend of the Guard, always giving the best accommodation and the lowest rates possible—and he having written a letter which I thought satisfactory, I agreed that the charges should be withdrawn.

THE ENCAMPMENT.

In obedience to General Order No. 6, there was held an encampment of the brigade at Wrightsville, July 17th to 24th, inclusive. Under section 16 of said order, I was charged with the execution of the same, and had a general supervision of the encampment, but the immediate command I had entrusted to the Brigade Commander. Though the general effect of the encampment was good, so far as instruction was concerned, yet I could see there was not that discipline maintained or zeal manifested as at the regimental encampments of the year before. The Regimental Commanders did not feel the responsibility as they did when they knew they alone would be held accountable, and there was a "looseness" not observed in regimental encampments. From the certificates of transportation, I find the companies were very fairly represented, but I have not yet received from the Brigade Commander any report at all as to the number of men present; for, though required by section 12, General Orders, No. 6, to forward a "consolidated daily report," and at the close of encampment to forward the "morning reports" of regiments, he has neglected to do so, not even sending in an annual report for the year, as required by Regulations. The Inspector General also reports that he has been unable, so far, to get any data whatever from the Brigade Commander as to the number of men at camp, etc. I am very sorry, indeed, that this state of facts should exist, and more sorry that my duty compels me to report them.

FUTURE ENCAMPMENTS.

From long experience, both in the line and staff, I am satisfied the best and most satisfactory encampments are those by regiment. In the State of New York, which is looked upon as the leader in all matters relating to the National Guard, whose distinguished Adjutant General has done so much for the advancement and the perfection of the service in his own State that his recommendations and orders are copied and followed in other States, it has been determined that the only successful encampments are those by regiment, and all others have been discarded. The regiment is the unit of organization to which we must look. The companies being thrown together but once in the year, the Colonel alone should be responsible for their instruction. In a regimental encampment he feels this, and knowing he will be looked to entirely for the drill, discipline and good behavior of his command, he assumes the proper responsibility and the command is benefited accordingly. In 1889 and 1891 our encampments were by brigade; in 1890, regimental. I feel sure more real good was accomplished by the encampment of 1890 than has ever been before or since experienced in the State.

In regard to future encampments, another serious question confronts us. The State only allows us $5,000 per year for encampments, and out of this the transportation has been paid, leaving a small balance towards necessary expenses of encampment. This has been supplemented by a fund derived from the sale of old arms; but this special fund has been exhausted, and as we are not now allowed by the General Government to dispose of old arms, the appropriation will be inadequate unless we can obtain funds in some other way. The only way I now see is to divide the encampments and accept the kind invitations extended by different cities in the State to hold our encampments near them. I am reliably informed by some of the best citizens of Asheville that if an encampment of one or more regiments is held near that city they will subscribe liberally towards paying all expenses. As there is a complete system of electric cars running in every direction from the city, the trouble experienced there in 1885 from want of transportation facilities to and from camp will be entirely obviated. As the officers and men of the Third and Fourth Regiments are very anxious to encamp in the western part of the State during the summer of 1892, I respectfully recommend that they be allowed to do so. I know that funds will be advanced to assist them; besides, the distance being shortened, it will not cost so much for transportation.

I also recommend that the First and Second Regiments be encamped on the permanent encampment site near Wrightsville. The citizens of Wilmington have certainly acted in a very noble and generous manner by the State Guard, having purchased and donated a permanent camp, consisting of one hundred acres of ground, and have given large sums of money towards the improvement of the same; but the new grounds are very far from being in a condition to be occupied by the brigade, though one regiment at a time, or perhaps two, could be made tolerably comfortable there. But the men have become tired of going to Wrightsville year after year, and they desire a change, and until the State furnishes a sufficient appropriation, out of which they can be paid for their time and all expenses, I feel the wishes of the men should be regarded as much as possible. When they are paid, as in New York and other Northern States, then I think the strictest discipline should be enforced, and they be required to attend annually at a permanent camp supplied with all necessary conveniences for practice and instruction. As long as attendance is without pay, and at their own expense, we must, while enforcing discipline, allow a reasonable amount of time for recreation and pleasure. By using good judgment, the encampments can be made very profitable and instructive to the men, and at the same time so attractive they will be not only willing but glad to attend every year.

Another very important reason for having regimental encampments, is that under the new Drill Regulations each regiment is divided into two or three battalions, each commanded by a Major, and the regiment is not drilled as a whole till the men have been perfected as much as possible in battalion drill, and in the short space of time at encampments it would be a useless waste of time to attempt brigade formations. In fact, the regiment, divided into battalions, now supersedes the brigade entirely. Besides, no officer can ever be expected to have confidence in himself till required to command and exercise authority, and when the services of the Guard are ever needed, not over one regiment is ordered out at a time; and as under these circumstances the Colonel has to rely upon his own judgment, it is important that the entire command of the regiment be vested in him at encampments, so as to give him confidence in himself, and to teach the officers and men to look up to and respect him, which they will not do if they feel his orders are liable at any time to be countermanded. It is clearly the intention of the new Drill Regulations to give the Regimental Commander the entire control of his own regiment.

AID TO CIVIL POWER.

Several times during the year the troops in various parts of the State have been ordered to hold themselves in readiness to uphold the civil authorities. In the first instance, Company E, First Regiment, was ordered out against the oyster pirates. As the orders were issued directly by the then Commander-in-Chief, I have no record of them whatever. I only know the troops responded most promptly to the call, and did good service; but when they were paid for their services—although the State had appropriated $15,000 to put down the oyster pirates—the men were only paid the per diem of enlisted men in the United States Army, and it was such a small sum it did not begin to pay them for their time; so they served absolutely at great loss. This has very much injured the company, as they had a membership at the time of fifty-three, of which number fifty responded to the call, and the other three were excused for good reasons; but the membership of the company has since fallen off to thirty-three, which is only one above the minimum allowed by law to a company. I am very sorry the orders and correspondence was not sent through regular channels, as it should appear in my report. Colonel Wood makes mention of it in his admirable annual report, but as the orders did not pass through my office, I have nothing to do with it in my report. Colonel Wood and all the companies of his regiment, as well as the Lieutenant Colonel and companies D and F of the Second Regiment, deserve great credit for the promptness and alacrity in obeying orders sent them by me in obedience to directions from your Excellency. At the time it seemed an armed force would be necessary at a minute's notice, and for ten days these companies were ready for service at a moment's warning. Happily, they were not ordered out, but the readiness with which they responded showed the great value of the Guard. Companies D and G, First Regiment, deserve especial mention for having kept an armed detachment of ten men each ready for telegraphic orders for a month.

Company G, Second Regiment, was called upon to uphold the civil authorities at Charlotte in May last, and but for their promptness and efficiency there would undoubtedly have been great loss of life. The Captain of this company deserves special mention for his coolness and bravery. I have been reliably informed by some of the best citizens of Charlotte that but for his action there would certainly have been bloodshed.

COLORED ENCAMPMENT.

The Charlotte Light Infantry was again ordered into camp this year, November 2d to 7th, inclusive. The encampment was held in the Exposition grounds at Raleigh. In issuing Special Orders in regard to this encampment, I placed our most efficient and painstaking Quartermaster General, Colonel Harrell, entirely in charge of all arrangements and details. Everything was attended to by him, and he reports a most successful encampment. The Secretary of War very kindly detailed Lieutenant J. H. Alexander, Ninth Cavalry, United States Army, as instructor for this encampment. He gave good and faithful service, instructing officers and men in every branch, and rendered most valuable assistance. I am glad to say the company maintained its established reputation for discipline and good order, and again won the plaudits of the good citizens of our Capital City.

REVISION OF REGULATIONS.

All officers of the Guard have felt for some time there must be a revision of the regulations, cutting out all that has been repealed and is obsolete and adding such new matter as is necessary to keep abreast with the times. At a meeting of the State Guard Association, held at last encampment, it was unanimously agreed that a revision of the regulations was necessary. I therefore respectfully recommend that a board of officers be ordered to meet as soon as it is practicable to revise the regulations, subject to the approval of the Commander-in-Chief.

WORLD'S COLUMBIAN EXPOSITION.

At the time of writing my last report the Committee on Ceremonies of the World's Columbian Exposition had determined on a grand encampment to be held at Chicago in October, 1892, and I had hoped the entire Guard might attend, but since then it has been determined to hold the encampment there in 1893. I see no reason why our State should not be represented, as we can make a display of which any State might be proud.

RIFLE PRACTICE.

There was very great improvement in all the companies in rifle practice during the year, but still there is room for much greater. I hope in future we will be able to furnish a larger supply of ball cartridges, as the amount heretofore supplied has been entirely inadequate. Our present very efficient Chief of Ordnance has an eye to this matter, and will try to supply the troops with whatever is most needed for practical purposes. All the companies competed for the "Walters Trophy" while at encampment, and it was won by Company B, Fourth Regiment.

CONCLUSION.

Before closing this report, I must express to you my high appreciation of the kindness and courtesy extended me by you at all times, as well as for other evidences of your confidence and esteem; and, in behalf of the Guard, I must thank you for the zeal and interest shown for its welfare and advancement, not only since you have been our Commander-in-Chief, but extending back into the past, when, as a member of the General Assembly at several sessions, you were among the first to call attention to the great value of its services, to point out its needs, and demand that the State should make an appropriation for its support.

My thanks are again due to the officers of the Guard for the hearty co-operation and support given me in all efforts to promote the interests of the service, and I feel it will not be out of place to call attention to the great work now being accomplished by our present most efficient Inspector General and Quartermaster General, each within his own department leaving no stone unturned to bring his own department to the highest state of perfection.

I cannot close this report without again thanking your most genial and accomplished Private Secretary for the renewed obligations under which he has placed me by his many acts of courtesy and attention. I would be glad if, as in other States, he was ex officio an officer of the General Staff.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE INSPECTOR GENERAL.

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA,
Inspector General's Department,
CHARLOTTE, N. C., Dec. 15th, 1891.

GENERAL JAMES D. GLENN,
Adjutant General of North Carolina, Greensboro, N. C.

SIR—I have the honor to submit herewith the official report of this Department for the year 1891.

General Orders, No. 2, February 9th, 1891, assigning me as Chief of this Department, were duly received, and I immediately reported for duty.

General Orders, No. 4, directing the inspection of the companies comprising the State Guard, were issued May 1st, 1891, and due notice having been given the troops, the inspection began June 5th with Company B, Fourth Regiment, and concluded with Company D, Third Regiment, November 27th, 1891.

The Official Roster of the State Guard at the beginning of the present year showed a list of thirty-one (31) companies, which were lettered and assigned as follows, viz.:

First Regiment, Companies A, B, C, D, E, F, G—7.

Second Regiment, Companies A, B, C, D, E, F—6.

Third Regiment, Companies A, B, C, D, E, F, G, I—8

Fourth Regiment, Companies A, B, C, D, E, F, G, K—8.

One company of cavalry, unattached—1.

One company of infantry (colored), unattached—1.

General Orders, No. 1, section 2, January 19th, 1891, transferred the Hornet's Nest Riflemen, Company E, Fourth Regiment, to the Second Regiment as Company G. In addition to the above, the Queen City Guards and Naval Battalion have been organized at Charlotte, N. C., both of which have been equipped and mustered into service.

At the annual inspection the companies, with a few exceptions, have about held their own. They have not shown the advancement they should have done during the past year. Full reports of each inspection were duly made to headquarters.

The companies, when paraded for inspection, mustered as follows, viz.:

Showing the same number of Companies as previous year, but a decrease of 116 men. The above footings are taken from Inspection Reports. Several of the companies being on the eve of reorganization, and recruiting, it would be safe to say they have gained their former standard by this time, which can be ascertained from the Regimental Consolidated Reports. The greatest falling off appears to be in Companies E and G, of the First Regiment. The campaign of Company E, last spring, had this effect upon their command, and the First Regiment Band has been disbanded, which was enlisted in this Company.

The average strength of the companies this year is about 40 men, whereas last year it was $41\frac{1}{2}$ men. The percentage reporting for duty at Inspection was about ninety (90) per cent., an increase of two per cent over last year. The companies being smaller necessarily increases the per cent.

The troops are generally better equipped than they have ever been, new fatigue blouses and leggins having been issued during the year, and new dress uniforms to a portion of the companies. There should be issued an extra pair of trousers to the entire command, giving them two full uniforms, as it is apparent the hard usage of an encampment is plainly shown in the condition of the dress trousers at inspection. These trousers should be plain, without the white stripe, which is so easily soiled. The armament is the same as previously reported, with a year's usage added thereto. Some of the guns are unserviceable, and have been repeatedly condemned. The general efficiency of the Guard is about as it was, as last reported.

It was decided by the Commander-in-Chief to try again this year the brigade encampment, which was ordered in June, Orders, No. 6, May 27, 1891. The camp (being named Camp Fowle, in honor of our distinguished and zealous late Commander-in-Chief) was held on the same grounds as the previous one, they having again been kindly tendered to the State by its owners

In compliance with Special Orders under date of July 11, 1891, on the morning of July 14 I reported at Camp Fowle for duty, under section 14, General Orders, No. 6, C. S. On the 15th I carefully inspected the entire brigade camp, preparatory to the arrival of the troops, a special report of which was duly forwarded to Brigade Headquarters. On the afternoon of July 14, the Quartermaster Sergeant and three men of Company G, First Regiment, arrived in camp, with one man sick, who was attended to by his companions and myself until arrival of his company, afternoon of 16th.

On the 17th the Second Regiment, Col. W. C. Jones commanding, with full Staff and band, arrived. During the afternoon and night the First, Third and Fourth Regiments arrived, none of them with full Staff or band, the bands of the First and Fourth having been disbanded on the eve of departure. General Cotten arrived at 6:30 p. m., and took command. It is impossible for me to give the strength of the brigade, as I have been unable to get this information from Brigade Headquarters, although I then and have since made every effort to procure this information. Work was immediately begun; the Second Regiment held dress-parade, and commenced the regular routine of camp-life. Guard and sentry duty was regularly performed day and night. There was not as much attention paid by officers to instruction of sentinels as there should have been, this being a Court of Instruction.

The chief feature appeared to be the dress-parades held daily, though the battalions were daily exercised in battalion movements. I would respectfully recommend here that in future more attention be paid to instruction in guard-mounting, sentry duty, skirmish drilling and target practice, as these are more essential than ceremonies.

The camp was regularly inspected daily, and found to be, in general, clean and well policed, though the tardiness of the police carts had to be reported almost daily to the Quartermaster General.

On the 21st the camp was visited by his Excellency the Commander-in-Chief, who held an informal reception of the officers. On the afternoon of the 22d the troops were received by the Governor, after which was held a brigade dress-parade, which was executed with promptness and precision, and reflected credit upon the citizen soldiery. The march past in review was well executed, alignments being very good and proper salutes rendered.

A detail of artillerists from Fortress Monroe, under command of an efficient non-commissioned officer, was sent to aid and instruct the troops in heavy-gun drill, a report of which will be made by Col. Benehan Cameron, Inspector of Rifle Practice. This detail fired the morning and evening gun. Target practice, under the direction of Colonel Cameron, was had by battalions.

On the morning of July 19th the First Virginia Regiment, accompanied by General Anderson and Staff, arrived and were assigned to quarters facing the sound, the most choice site that could be found for them. They performed daily duties in accordance with regulations governing our State troops, and exercised their command chiefly in target practice and sentry duty, which we might, with profit, copy. They showed a marked improvement from day to day under the instruction of Lieutenant Hines, United States Army. At their request, I inspected the camp of this regiment in conjunction with ours, and made a report of the same to Brigade Headquarters. Their men, both on and off duty, were soldierly and gentlemanly. The fraternal feelings and interchange of courtesies were beneficial to both our men and themselves. Experience has undoubtedly proven that the division encampments are much preferable to brigade, inasmuch as they give the colonels the entire command and responsibility of their own regiments; this being the case it calls forth more exertion on their part to perfect their commands in the various duties of camp-life. There being a smaller number of men in camp, they can be better provided for in every respect, and receive more instruction from officers assigned to this duty. I recommend that, in future, the encampments be held as suggested above.

The guard-mountings were not as good as those of previous encampments, owing to a change of Adjutants in some regiments, and new line officers, this being their first experience in camp-life.

The health of the camp was very good.

The troops were furnished transportation, quarters, fuel, lights, ice and medical attention, but to make the annual encampment a success and benefit to the men and our State, they should be furnished rations, and each man be required to provide himself with a cot, which can be obtained at a nominal cost; with these, the camp could be kept much cleaner, and the men less subject to becoming sick. This was shown by the hospital records; all the sick men were those who did not have cots.

I desire to call special attention to the numerous suggestions and recommendations of my old Chief-of-Staff, especially the latter portion of his report for 1890, pertaining to the system of electing company officers. The inefficiency of the present system was clearly demonstrated during the last encampment. In this connection, I also recommend that an examining board be appointed, before whom shall appear all officers so elected, to be examined on the duties they will be required to perform, and that commissions only be issued on the approval and recommendation of this board.

After three years of continuous and faithful duty, if so desired, the men be honorably discharged and be exempt from jury duty.

An officer be detailed at each encampment to lecture on military affairs, give theoretical instructions in tactics, military correspondence, orders, and such other things as he may deem necessary.

Every officer should familiarize himself with the laws governing his conduct in time of public disturbances, and with the most important parts of international law; also exercise his command in such tactics as would be required in case of riots or street fights. The standard of discipline is far from what it should be to ever have a first-class organization; the remedy devolves upon the regimental and company commanders, mainly upon the latter.

As we have only one colored company, they deserve special mention for the soldierly manner in which they have always conducted themselves, and great credit for keeping their Company up as has been done, their advantages, of course, being less than the companies of the brigade.

The duties devolving upon the officers of this department during the past year have been faithfully performed, and my thanks are due my assistants, Maj. Robt. S. Young, Capt. F. L. Meares, and Lieutenant Hines, U. S. A., for their valuable aid and co-operation.

It is very evident there is a growing necessity for an efficient armed force in our State, and it behooves it to increase our present valuable State Guard, which is its only safeguard in times of insurrection or riot. It is the State's strong arm, and one of honor and usefulness at all times. The appropriation should be increased to embrace forty companies, but until this is obtained I most respectfully recommend the present appropriation be allowed the thirty companies making the highest figures of efficiency at their annual inspections—their monthly inspections, parades and target practices to be taken into consideration.

Yours, very respectfully,

A. L. SMITH,
Inspector General.

ANNUAL REPORT OF QUARTERMASTER GENERAL
AND CHIEF OF ORDNANCE.

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA,
*Office of Quartermaster General
and Chief of Ordnance,*
RALEIGH, Dec. 1, 1891.

BRIGADIER GENERAL JAMES D. GLENN,
Adjutant General State of North Carolina.

SIR—I have the honor to submit the following report for these departments, the Quartermaster's and Ordnance, for the fiscal year just ended.

QUARTERMASTER'S DEPARTMENT.

During the year there were drawn and issued leggins of the army pattern for, practically, the entire force. The leggins are very serviceable, and give great satisfaction.

Many miscellaneous issues of clothing were made to officers of all grades. The band of the Second Regiment, at Wilmington, was completely equipped. The Charlotte Light Infantry, the Guilford Grays, and the Reidsville Rifles were also furnished a complete equipment. The property held by the band of the Fourth Regiment, at Hickory, was returned, and is stored in the arsenal, in good condition, the band having been dishonorably discharged from service.

The supply of tentage was largely increased, and is now ample for the use of the brigade.

Cloth was drawn, and advance issues made by the Pettibone Manufacturing Company, for troops, are all covered. There is a supply of cloth on hand for use in emergencies.

CIRCULARS ISSUED.

The following circulars were issued :

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA,
Quartermaster General's Department,
 RALEIGH, April 15, 1891.

CIRCULAR NO. 8.

You are hereby informed that the issue will be made to the enlisted men of the State Guard of white or summer helmets, leggins and blankets. Requisitions for these should be made at once upon blank No. 4, enclosed. The number of each allowed your company is Leggins are of three sizes. Size No. 1 is for shoes of sizes 5 to 6; size No. 2 for those of sizes 6 to 7, and size No. 3 for those of sizes 7 to 10. Care should be taken in filling the blanks.

Helmets are of standard sizes. In measuring, the size of each man's head should be set down and a summary made on the blank showing the total number of each size required.

Great care should be at all times taken of this property, all of which is owned by the Government, and for which the State is directly responsible. When not in military use, all the property should be carefully stored—blankets, like clothing—in a place secure from moths. Blankets and clothing should be given air and sunlight once a month, if possible.

FRED. A. OLDS,
Quartermaster General.

COLONEL FRED. A. OLDS, Quartermaster General.

SIR—I respectfully request that you will issue Company,
 Regiment, each of blankets, leggins and white helmets:

No. 1.	No. 2.	No. 3.

SIZES OF HELMETS REQUIRED.

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA,
Quartermaster General's Department,
 RALEIGH, May 23, 1891.

CIRCULAR No. 9.

The Ordnance and Quartermaster's Stores issued to the State Guard are not State property, but the property of the United States, for which the State is strictly responsible to the Government. The accountability of the State Guard is to the State, and is also strict.

The Quartermaster General and Chief of Ordnance is required to file annual returns of Ordnance and Quartermaster's Stores from all the troops, upon proper blanks. The attention of all regimental and company commanders is called to the fact that returns of the same character must, at all times, be made by the date specified therein.

Only ammunition can be "expended" and dropped. All stores which become unserviceable must be sent to the Quartermaster General with a complete invoice, and a requisition must be made for the stores necessary to replace them.

No Ordnance or Quartermaster's Stores can be dropped as "lost," save in actual service, and none as "destroyed," save by fire. As the law requires all military property to be insured, the value of property so burned will be charged against the organization, and payment must be made by the same. The insurance will make this good to the organization.

For all Ordnance Stores "lost" in ordinary use, or through carelessness even in actual service, payment will be required at the Government valuation of such property, and measures will be promptly taken to secure the proper settlement of amounts thus due.

For Quartermaster's Stores "lost" in ordinary use, or through carelessness even in actual service, payment will also be required at the Government valuation, save that as to dress-coats and trousers the valuation will be only of the cloth, linings, facings, etc., which are supplied by the Government.

Upon the receipt from such organizations of unserviceable stores they will be inspected by a board.

Paragraph three of amended Section 1661 of the United States Revised Statutes provides that Ordnance and Quartermaster's Stores shall remain the property of the United States, and shall be annually accounted for; and paragraph four of the same provides that all Ordnance and Quartermaster's Stores which may become unserviceable shall be examined annually by a Board of Officers, who shall direct the disposition to be made of them, whether by sale or otherwise; and the proceeds of such sale shall be covered into the Treasury of the United States. If public property is rendered unserviceable through causes other than the ordinary incidents of service, the Board will investigate the causes and recommend to the Secretary of War the necessary action as to personal responsibility in each case.

No military property is to be used save for the purposes for which it is issued. The property must, at all times, save when in use at parades, or drills, or on duty, be kept in the armories.

FRED. A. OLDS,
Quartermaster General and Chief of Ordnance.

ORDNANCE DEPARTMENT.

During the year a Hotchkiss breech-loading rifled cannon, with field carriage and naval carriage, was purchased, by special direction of Governor Fowle, out of the Oyster Patrol Fund, to be used on the patrol steamer in the winter months, and for other purposes during the summer. Some shells and powder for the heavy guns and mortars at the permanent camp were drawn on quota, as was also a ten-barrel 45-cal. Gatling gun, complete, the latter being for the Naval Reserve Battalion at Charlotte.

A number of miscellaneous articles of equipment were issued various organizations. Only one new company was equipped during the year—the Queen City Guards, Charlotte, assigned as Company E, Fourth Regiment.

THE PERMANENT ENCAMPMENT GROUNDS.

By direction of Governor Fowle, the grounds at the permanent encampment, Wrightsville, were graded, and grass set out; the rifle-range enlarged, so as to give space for four targets, which were drawn on quota and put up; some ponds were filled up, the grounds in rear cleared, and four pavilions were built, each sufficiently large for a regiment. The changes wrought by these improvements were very great, but the ground is not yet in good condition for a permanent encampment.

THE ANNUAL ENCAMPMENT .

was, thanks to the courtesy of Mrs. Frederick Poisson and Mr. Edward E. Latimer, again held at Kenmore, making the fourth time there. Provision was made for five regiments, one being the First Virginia.

THE VETERANS IN CAMP.

For the first time, the ex-Confederate veterans went in camp at Wrightsville, using the camp as vacated by the State Guard, the Quartermaster General, by special orders, remaining in charge, and also by order of Major General Robert Ransom, Commander of the veterans, acting as Commissary General.

THE ENCAMPMENT OF THE COLORED TROOPS.

Orders were received directing the Charlotte Light Infantry, Capt. C. S. L. A. Taylor, into camp at Raleigh, November 4th, for one week, and instructing me to prepare quarters for them. The instructions were carried out, the command encamped at the Exposition grounds and acquitted itself with credit.

THE PROPERTY RETURNS.

The property returns accompanying show (A) receipts and (B) issues of Quartermaster's Stores during the year; (C) receipts and (D) issues of Ordnance Stores for the same period. I have the honor to be, sir,

Your obedient servant,

EUGENE G. HARRELL,

*Quartermaster General
and Chief of Ordnance.*

DURING THE YEAR ENDING NOVEMBER 30TH, 1891.

[illegible]

SPECIAL REPORT OF QUARTERMASTER GENERAL
IN REGARD TO ENCAMPMENT OF THE CHARLOTTE LIGHT INFANTRY.

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA,
Office of Quartermaster General
and Chief of Ordnance,
RALEIGH, N. C., Dec. 11th, 1891:

GENERAL JAMES D. GLENN, Adjutant General,
Greensboro, N. C.

DEAR SIR—In compliance with Special Orders, No. 1, under date of October 26th, 1891, as follows:

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA,
General Headquarters, Adjutant General's Office.
RALEIGH, October 26, 1891.

[SPECIAL ORDERS, No. 1.]

There will be an encampment of the Charlotte Light Infantry, Capt. C. S. L. A. Taylor commanding, at the Exposition grounds near Raleigh, N. C., from November 2d to November 7th, inclusive. Company will leave Charlotte on the morning of November 2d, and, upon arrival at Raleigh, will march directly to camp, and report to the Quartermaster General and enter upon active duty.

Sections 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 18, 19 of General Orders, No. 6, C. S., will be observed, as well as Article 18, State Guard Regulations.

Hours for service and roll-calls will be prescribed by Quartermaster General. The Quartermaster General is charged with execution of this order, and, to that end, will enter upon active duty, making all necessary arrangements for the encampment, and will exercise a general supervision of the conduct and government of the same.

Lieut. John H. Alexander, of the United States Army, having been detailed to visit this encampment for the purpose of giving instruction in all military duties, will, it is hoped, receive the hearty co-operation of all officers and men, and, as an officer of the United States Army, will be obeyed and respected accordingly.

By order of the Commander-in Chief.

JAMES D. GLENN,
Adjutant General.

I have the honor to report that Camp Walter Raleigh was duly prepared for occupancy by the Charlotte Light Infantry on November 2d, 1891.

The tents were pitched on a well-located plot of level land, comprising about six acres, situated within the grounds of the Southern Inter-States Exposition, near the city of Raleigh. There was provided every convenience of camp, including an abundance of good water and fuel.

The troops arrived in camp at 12 o'clock on November 2d, under command of Capt. C. S. L. A. Taylor, there being forty-one men, rank and file. The men were well equipped, in good condition, and entered at once upon active duty in accordance with orders issued by the Quartermaster General, as follows:

6:30 A. M.	Reveille.
7:30 "	Surgeon's Call.
8:00 "	Breakfast.
8:45 "	First Sergeant's Call.
9:00 "	Guard-mounting.
10:00 "	Fatigue.
10:30 "	Morning Drill.
12:00 M.	Recall from Drill.
12:30 P. M.	Dinner.
2:30 "	Afternoon Drill.
3:30 "	Recall from Drill.
4:00 "	Dress-parade.
5:30 "	Sup per.
10:00 "	Tattoo.
10:30 "	Taps.

Lieut. John H. Alexander, of the United States Army, who had been detailed by the War Department as special instructor, was present promptly at the opening of the camp. He is a gentlemanly and efficient officer, and, under his thorough and careful training, the troops made rapid progress in the manual of arms, company movements, and in all the duties of a soldier. Many of the men were recent recruits, and, under the skillful and constant work of the instructor and of Captain Taylor, a marked improvement was shown at the close of the encampment exercises. The discipline by the officers and the conduct of the men were specially commendable, there being not a single case of discipline during the entire encampment. The men were taught to understand what was expected of them as soldiers, whether on or off duty, and they seemed to take pride in being soldiers. Military courtesies were carefully and rigidly observed at all times, and the constant drilling by Captain Taylor upon this important point was specially commendable.

To the important ceremonies of guard-mounting Lieutenant Alexander gave special attention in his instruction, and the systematic manner in which this duty was performed towards the close of the encampment was commendable and satisfactory.

The services of a non-commissioned officer from the regular army, in addition to the general instruction of the specially detailed officer, would be peculiarly desirable and valuable in a camp of instruction, as he would be regularly in camp and in constant contact with the men.

The camp was thoroughly inspected by Surgeon General Hubert Haywood on November 5th, each tent being examined in the most careful manner, including also the kitchen and sink.

On Friday, November 6th, the encampment ended, and the troops embarked for home, well pleased with their week of regular military service and greatly improved by the instruction which they had received, it being as thorough as was possible within the brief time allotted to the encampment.

The daily reports of Captain Taylor are herewith enclosed.

Respectfully, your obedient servant,

EUGENE G. HARRELL,

Quartermaster General.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE INSPECTOR GENERAL OF SMALL-ARMS PRACTICE.

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA,
Inspector General's Department of Small-Arms Practice,
RALEIGH, N. C., December 31st, 1891.

GENERAL JAMES D. GLENN,
Adjutant General of North Carolina.

SIR—Absence from the State for several months has caused the delay of this official report of this Department for the year 1891.

On arrival at Camp Fowle, at Wrightsville Sound, 18th July, I inspected the rifle-pits and targets erected by Colonel Olds, and found them safe and satisfactory for use; and on the morning of 21st of July the Second Regiment was ordered by Brigadier General J. W. Cotten, commanding the camp, to report for duty in rifle practice, which made the score appended hereto, as recorded by Capt. C. A. Cook, Regimental Inspector of First Regiment; Capt. J. W. Carter, Regimental Inspector of Second Regiment; Capt. W. T. Clements, Regimental Inspector of Third Regiment, and Capt. O. E. Dudley, Acting Regimental Inspector of the Fourth Regiment, thus constituting a Board of Judges under my supervision.

On the afternoon of the 21st July the Third Regiment made the score as appended, the Fourth Regiment on the morning of the 22d July, and the First Regiment on the afternoon of the 22d July.

Deducting the absentees who reported for daily morning duty, but did not engage in the small-arms practice, the score, as reported by the Board of Judges and approved by me, resulted in the highest company average being attained by Company B of the Fourth Regiment—Southern Stars, of Lincolnton—which was closely approximated by Company A of the Third Regiment—Forsyth Rifles. Accordingly, the handsome “Walters Trophy” was awarded to Company B of the Fourth Regiment, and the presentation was made by his Excellency our Commander-in-Chief, Governor T. M. Holt, in a very handsome and appropriate manner on the evening of 23d July, after his review.

On the 26th of August I was commissioned as the Military Representative of this State to attend a meeting of the Committee on Ceremonies of the World’s Columbian Commission to be held in Chicago on the 16th of September, which I, accepted; but on information from the Secretary of the World’s Fair that that meeting was postponed until the 28th of October, when it would be impossible for me to attend, I accordingly notified my alternate, Capt. Leo. D. Heartt, and hence I have nothing to report in that matter. But it is not out of place, I trust, to say that, in my judgment, one of the greatest benefits that can accrue to the State Guard will be an encampment held in Chicago during the World’s Fair in 1893.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

BENEHAN CAMERON,

Colonel and Inspector General

Small-arms Practice, N. C. S. G.

REPORTS OF REGIMENTAL COMMANDERS.

FIRST REGIMENT.

REPORT OF COLONEL WOOD.

HEADQUARTERS FIRST REGIMENT, N. C. S. G.,
ELIZABETH CITY, N. C., December 1st, 1891.

GENERAL JAMES D. GLENN,
Adjutant General North Carolina.

SIR—In compliance with regulations, I herewith submit my report for the current year.

On the 12th day of January I received from the Commander-in-Chief telegraphic orders to hold myself and Company E., First Regiment, in readiness to aid the civil authorities in the execution of process against violators of the oyster law; also to charter a steamer to be used in the expedition. I obeyed these instructions at once, holding Company E., Pasquotank Rifles, in readiness to move at a moment's notice.

On the 21st of January, in pursuance of further orders, I left Elizabeth City at 2 o'clock P. M. on the steamer "Vesper," having on board my Adjutant, Lieutenant Albertson, Assistant Surgeon Cartwright, and the officers and men of Company E, together with cooks, etc., and the crew of the vessel. Out of a total membership of fifty-three, Company E reported present fifty. The three absent ones being excused for reasons that in no way reflected upon them.

After making a thorough search of Pamlico Sound and its tributaries, I returned to Elizabeth City on the 29th instant, visiting, in the meantime, by direction of the Governor, the towns of New Bern and Washington. The object of this expedition was to enforce the oyster law which, according to report, was being grossly violated. Large fleets of vessels from other States were engaged in taking oysters and transporting them to Virginia and Maryland, the crews of said vessels being desperate in character and heavily armed, terrifying the native oyster men and proceeding even so far as robbery and murder. Such, at least, was the report, and at this point it had a large seeming coloring of truth. My full report of the expedition has heretofore been forwarded so that it is needless now to repeat it. I cannot, however, let the occasion pass without again adverting to the admirable behavior of the members of Company E. Most of them, as I suppose is the case with a majority of the State Guard, young men dependent upon their own daily employment, many of them with families, called off for an indefinite period at the busiest season of the year and upon what might well have been a perilous expedition, all but three responded to the call, and they, as stated, were excused for good and sufficient reasons. Some had responded almost in direct disobedience of their employers and many others at a great sacrifice of time and money. Upon returning, some found their situations filled by others, some had their wages "doeked," and all lost money, for the great State of North Carolina paid them the munificent reward of thirty-three cents per day. The men went from a sense of duty, without complaint or murmur, and would have gone without compensation and without enquiring whether they would receive any. When the pay-roll was made out and they received the rich wages of three dollars for nine day's service, it seemed ridiculously like throwing pennies to a beggar. I have not mentioned this in a spirit of offensiveness towards any of our military authorities, I think the Commander-in-Chief did all that he legally could do, but the fault lies with the law applying to our State Guard—a fault which our legislators should speedily correct and which they must correct if the Guard is desired to attain a degree of efficiency commensurate with State pride and greatness.

In connection with the expedition above referred to, I desire to explain an occurrence that embarrassed me for a time with some of our neighbors from Virginia. A few days before leaving I received notice that a gun from the Norfolk Light Artillery Blues would be sent out to me, together with rounds of ammunition, etc. About the same time I received an intimation that a detachment from that company would also come out to work the gun. I at once telegraphed the Governor if I was not expected to handle the gun with my own men. He replied that I should. The morning of the day we left, the detachment came, under command of Capt. Keeling, the gun having been sent out before. They reported to me, and announced readiness to proceed on board and take charge of the gun. I told Capt. K. that I had no orders to receive him on board, and that while I regretted any misunderstanding, I could not allow him to become a part of the command under me. I learned afterwards that the Virginians felt greatly aggrieved, but I see nothing in military practice or regulations to justify it. I think our State is capable of fighting its own battles, and I should have felt humiliated had I been compelled to take with me on this class of duty troops from another State. I think Captain Keeling misinterpreted his orders, which were, as I understood them, to send out a gun, with ammunition, etc., without mentioning detachment. Certainly the correspondence I have of Adjutant-General McDonald makes no mention of a detachment, and I am sure he did not contemplate that one should be sent. The Commander-in-Chief has approved my action, and I have the approval of my own judgment.

In obedience to orders my regiment was in camp at Wrightsville during the past summer. I was gratified at the appearance and behavior of the men, and greatly pleased at the character of the several company officers. I have in my regiment the making of a fine body of soldiers in every respect, as they are now in most of the essentials. In volunteer organizations like this it is impossible to conduct a camp on strict military principles. When men give up their time and even their money to go into camp, and receive no sort of compensation for it, a too strict enforcement of discipline would surely result in disorganization. The time must come when the State must offer some inducement towards keeping her volunteer soldiers in service, else each succeeding encampment will, as has been the case heretofore, witness more new faces than old ones. Under present conditions, I do not think absolute discipline can be secured, and, with my regiment, I did not attempt it. By giving the men some latitude for enjoyment, they are more contented and more apt to remain in the service, while at the same time they give better attention to instruction and perform the duties laid upon them with more cheerfulness and satisfaction. I have no fault to find with my command, and every reason to be pleased with it. The officers are nearly all young men of social and business prominence, capable of the highest duties of citizenship, and forming, with the men under their charge, a bulwark for the State in case of danger.

On the 18th day of September, 1891, I received your order to hold my entire regiment, together with Companies D and F, Second Regiment, in readiness to march upon receipt of telegraphic or other notice from me, and in obedience thereto issued an order carrying out your instructions. No further order was received by me, and after waiting some days for same, I withdrew my order to my staff and company officers. Several companies were for a time actually prepared to move at a moment's notice, and all of them would have been ready to march when required. While the cause of these orders was removed in other ways, and they became in a sense a false alarm, I am pleased with the readiness to obey that was displayed by the entire command, and regret only that it caused inconvenience and trouble to the members of several companies without any corresponding benefit.

J. E. WOOD,
Colonel First Regiment.

SECOND REGIMENT.

REPORT OF COLONEL JONES.

HEADQUARTERS SECOND REGIMENT, N. C. S. G.,
WILMINGTON, N. C., December 1, 1891.

GENERAL JAMES D. GLENN,
Greensboro, N. C.

DEAR SIR — In conformity with sections 201 and 202, State Guard Regulations, I have the honor to submit my annual report.

Within the past twelve months two companies of my command have been called upon to render aid to the civil authorities—Companies C and G—and both responded promptly to the calls and rendered efficient services.

The Second Regiment, and the State Guard also, have received a loss in the death of Major W. L. Faison, of Clinton, who has rendered useful services to the Guard since 1883, and Company C has suffered a blow in the death of First Lieutenant Duval French, who was greatly beloved by his fellow-soldiers.

In compliance with General Orders, all of my Companies reported at Camp Latimer at the designated time in July, and, without an exception, performed their duties well and took an interest in their work. Company G (Captain Robertson) is certainly quite an addition to the command, and it deserves special mention of universally neat appearance and of the excellent condition in which its quarters were kept.

We are indebted to Colonel John F. Benton and the good citizens of Wilson for a pleasant day spent with them on June 17, to take part in the ceremony of laying the corner-stone of a monument in honor of Confederate dead. There were present Company D of the First Regiment, and Companies A, C, D and F of the Second, and I had the honor of commanding them.

I respectfully suggest that I am still of the opinion that it would be better for the Guard if two regiments at a time are ordered into camp.

I have the honor to be,

Your obedient servant,

W. C. JONES,

Colonel Second Regiment, N. C. S. G.

THIRD REGIMENT.

REPORT OF COLONEL BOYD.

HEADQUARTERS THIRD REGIMENT, N. C. S. G.,

REIDSVILLE, N. C., December 28th, 1891.

GENERAL JAMES D. GLENN,

Adjutant General of North Carolina.

SIR—In conformity with Sections 201 and 202, State Guard Regulations, I have the honor to submit my annual report.

Having been in command of the Third Regiment only about two months, my report will necessarily be brief, as very little has occurred within that time worthy of notice. I was in attendance at Camp Fowle in July, at the State Guard Encampment, and Colonel Gray being absent, the command of the regiment devolved upon me, I being the ranking officer present. I think the encampment was very beneficial to my regiment, and while we did not make as much improvement as we desired, still we made very satisfactory progress, and I was very much gratified at, and take pleasure in reporting, that both officers and men obeyed all orders with promptness and cheerfulness, and their gentlemanly conduct at all times was noticeable, and is to be highly commended. I noticed, however, that the officers and men did not as carefully observe military courtesy as they should, but I think it was due to the fact that they do not observe it in their armories. A strict observance of military courtesy as truly distinguishes the soldier as good manners does the gentleman, and the officers should instruct their men as regularly in this as in the manual of arms.

I would recommend that the Regimental Bands be granted an annual appropriation sufficient to defray their necessary expenses, and that a large tent be furnished each band, so they can have a place for practice in bad weather and have ample protection for their instruments. The Regimental Bands add very much to the success of our encampments, and during the year their necessary expense is a good deal, and I think they are justly entitled to some compensation from the State.

My regiment is in very good condition, and I think will show a marked improvement at the next encampment.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

S. H. BOYD,

Colonel Third Regiment, N. C. S. G.

FOURTH REGIMENT.

REPORT OF COLONEL ANTHONY.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTH REGIMENT, N. C. S. G.,

CHARLOTTE, N. C., December 20, 1891.

GENERAL JAMES D. GLENN,

Adjutant General North Carolina State Guard,

Greensboro, N. C.

SIR—In conformity with The Code, sections 201 and 202, I hereby submit my annual report.

During the year ending December 1 I have received General Orders numbers 1 to 16, and the same have been published to the troops constituting this command. During the month of March, and upon the occasion of the murder of a white citizen of Charlotte by a South Carolina negro, who was arrested and incarcerated in jail, a serious riot was threatened, and at one time seemed inevitable, upon which the Sheriff requested the use of the troops. Permission to use them having been granted from general headquarters, I directed Captain T. R. Robertson, commanding Company G, Second Regiment, to proceed to quarter his command in the jail and be governed by orders from the Sheriff. The above orders were complied with, and on my arrival later at the jail I found two assemblies of people congregated in a threatening attitude, in close proximity to the jail, one partly white, the other colored. Rumors of lynching the negro seemed to be the cause of the assembling of each party, the whites supposed to be the party to lynch and the negroes threatening to prevent it. The civil officers, from the Sheriff to the Mayor of the city, as well as several ministers of the gospel, having failed to prevail upon the rioters to disperse, I suggested to the Sheriff that the troops be used, as all efforts had proved useless. Receiving his orders, I directed the Captain commanding to form his men "Company front," bayonets fixed, to support a platoon of police, who, at command, moved against the mob, which at once proceeded to disperse without resistance to the military, each of the factions, white and colored, yielding and retiring to their homes. In my opinion, a serious breach of the peace was averted by the presence of the military upon this occasion, which is but another striking proof of the worth and necessity of the Guard—not so much what they do, but as a menace to those disposed to disregard the civil arm of the law, and to teach them as guardians of law and order.

I directed Captain Robertson to make a detailed report bearing upon his operations on the above occasion, but as his command has been transferred from the Fourth Regiment to the Second, and he being required to make report to those headquarters, I presume he deemed it unnecessary to make one to me. I suppose a full detailed account will appear in the report of Colonel W. C. Jones, commanding Second Regiment.

On my reassuming command of the Fourth Regiment, December 4, 1890, a petition from Company E to be transferred to some other regiment was presented to me to be forwarded. I forwarded the same, with the endorsement that it be not approved, as petitioners assigned no reason for same, and I thought to grant so unusual a request would tend to establish a bad as well as a dangerous precedent—one tending to destroy the little discipline remaining in the State Guard. The petition was, however, granted. I presume to promote the best interest of the service. No cause was ever assigned on the papers for the request, and I would most respectfully suggest that in future when such questions arise, that a commission of three officers be appointed through the direction of the Adjutant General's Department, and approved by the Commander-in-Chief, whose duties shall be to thoroughly investigate the matter and report to general headquarters. Such commission would be more satisfactory, and would relieve any individual officer of a naturally embarrassing duty.

On receipt of General Orders to report to Wrightsville with my command to attend the Annual Encampment, the orders were issued to those companies constituting the Fourth Regiment, consisting of seven companies, all of whom reported promptly as directed, with full ranks. On arriving at camp the regular routine duties were commenced and carried out till the morning of breaking camp and marching of troops to the depot. The deportment of men and officers during the encampment was all that could be expected. All seemed contented and cheerful, performing their duties. In improvement by instruction, I regarded the last encampment as one of the best the Guard has ever yet held. The only complaint seems to be occasioned by the men becoming tired of encampments each year at Wrightsville, and by the action of the railroad officials regarding the handling of troops. They seem to have no concert of action between them, my command having suffered, both in going and coming, by delays and detentions, many very annoying hardships, that of having to be detained one entire day in Wilmington showing gross negligence. I trust in future that one of the conditions of the contract for transportation of troops will be that in no case shall they be required to transfer them from the cars, either men or baggage, or be detained by reason of missing connections with regular trains, or any other cause other than unavoidable accident.

In behalf of my command I shall ever feel very grateful to the noble people of Wilmington for their many acts, so generously bestowed upon us; but as the command seems to desire a change to some other point, I feel it incumbent upon me as their commander to respectfully recommend that my regiment be allowed to hold its next annual encampment at some other point—the western portion of the State being preferred to Wrightsville. In this connection I deem it but just to other towns and cities of our State, who support companies in the Guard, that they be given a chance to offer us a site for encampment and such other inducements as they may elect.

During the current year I have only visited a portion of my command personally, having intended to do so this month, but being prevented by a severe attack of sickness, Major E. F. Young, whom I deputed to visit Companies C and F, performed the duty, and gave a very gratifying report of the same.

All the seven companies of my regiment have complied with the regulations of The Code in their monthly reports. The companies all have a fair complement of men under the present system, but as the new tactics prescribe double-rank formation for drilling, I would respectfully suggest that the minimum number required in future be made FIFTY instead of as present FORTY. The tendency of most of the companies is to have barely the minimum.

I am glad to report a marked degree of improvement in my district in military spirit. Two new companies have been organized and assigned to my regiment, making nine companies, with another new organization which, if accepted, will complete the full organization of the regiment as per army regulations. I would, in this connection, suggest that additional companies be admitted into the Guard sufficient to perfect the organization of all the regiments.

I think as perfection in marksmanship with the soldier is one of the most essential and desirable qualifications, that the yearly allowance of ammunition is entirely too small, and should be increased to 2,000 rounds for practice and 500 reserved. The above quantity, with a company of fifty men, gives them forty rounds each to practice with at a target during the year, and even that amount seems insufficient to teach men to become expert riflemen.

The Fourth Regiment Band, with headquarters at Hickory, N. C., having failed to comply with requirements, that of going to the encampment, were duly dismissed from the service, and their uniforms and equipments returned to the Quartermaster General.

The Statesville Band has been appointed and mustered into service for the term of five years, and will in future constitute the Fourth Regiment Band.

I respectfully recommend that provision be made for each Regimental Band by legislation, and an appropriation annually of one hundred ($100) dollars for defraying their expenses at encampments, as the present custom of apportioning the men to the several companies is unsatisfactory and fraught with many discouraging results.

Very respectfully,

J. T. ANTHONY,

Colonel Commanding.

FIRST BATTALION NAVAL ARTILLERY.

REPORT OF MAJOR CRAMER.

FIRST BATTALION NAVAL ARTILLERY, N. C. S. G.,

Headquarters at Charlotte, December 1, 1891.

GENERAL JAMES D. GLENN,

Adjutant General, Greensboro. N. C.

SIR—In accordance with the State Guard Regulations, I have the honor to make my first annual report.

Since the formation of this battalion, the two batteries composing it at present have been under my immediate command for drills and instruction. I take pleasure in stating that they have already made considerable progress; in fact, much more than I could reasonably expect. The new naval infantry and artillery tactics are well suited to the needs of our branch of the service, and admit of much greater rapidity of movement in every way than do the old Upton. It is to be regretted that there has been some delay in issuing the Lee magazine rifles, as it interferes with my mapping out a course of instruction for the winter months. The infantry drill is the smallest part of the work to be done by the batteries, but of course should be taught first.

In the course of the next month I will enlist a band, arrangements towards which are now in progress. And just here let me say that to expect a band worth having to serve in this capacity, without any inducement whatever, is absurd. It should be furnished with uniforms, and also have an annual appropriation of not less than one hundred dollars—two hundred and fifty would be a more reasonable figure. It should also be subsisted by the State when ordered out. These inducements would make bands seek the position.

I am informed that efforts are being made at Wilmington and Newbern for the organization of batteries, and I have no doubt but that they will be successful very soon.

Lieutenant Commander Soley, of Massachusetts, has written me recently in regard to making a united effort towards having the monitors now lying idle in the James river sent to the different States for instruction of the naval battalions at all times during the year. These vessels would not have to be put in commission, and the government would be put to no extra expense. I would therefore suggest that the State make application to the Navy Department to have one of these monitors sent to Wilmington for the purpose above specified.

Permit me to also suggest that an attempt be made to have the Legislature pass a bill to allow the appropriation of $250 per annum to every company in the State Guard that complies with all the requirements of the regulations. Unless not only is transportation furnished, but all expenses paid, our encampments will never be what they should. Other States not only do this, but allow a per diem when on duty.

As the Naval Battalion goes to Fortress Monroe next June for its annual summer instruction and drill on board naval vessels detailed for the purpose, of course it is out of the question to expect it to go to the encampment of the troops too. Therefore let me suggest that I be authorized to form a gun's crew of such as wish to go from the two batteries and send it down with the Gatling gun. It would be of considerable benefit to the infantry to have instruction in at least the manual of the piece. The mechanism of the magazine rifles could also be explained, as it is desirable that the men should be familiar at least with the small arms in use in the naval service.

I have prescribed a regular course of instruction for the officers and petty officers of my command, and propose having annual examinations, and would suggest that a certain percentage be required in the proposed new State Guard Regulations, or that the places be declared vacant. I am satisfied that it will be the only way of bringing up the standard to what it should be. My observation in camp last summer as a visitor was that the officers were not all that they should be, the men being, comparatively speaking, more proficient than their officers. Of course I do not say this in any other than a most friendly spirit, and hope it will be received as such. I am sure a great many of the officers of the Guard feel the same in the matter.

I am, Sir, very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

STUART W. CRAMER,

Lieutenant Commander, Commanding.

REPORT OF INSPECTION OF THE CHARLOTTE LIGHT INFANTRY OF NORTH CAROLINA.

RALEIGH, N. C., November 8, 1891.

THE ADJUTANT GENERAL UNITED STATES ARMY,

Washington, D. C.

SIR—I have the honor to submit the following report of my visit to the encampment of the Charlotte Light Infantry at Raleigh, N. C., in accordance with the following order:

Orders, }
No. 236. }

HEADQUARTERS OF THE ARMY,

Adjutant General's Office,

WASHINGTON, October 10, 1891.

[Extract.]

* * * * *

14. By direction of the acting Secretary of War, Second Lieutenant J. H. Alexander, Ninth Cavalry, will visit the camp of the Charlotte Light Infantry during the period of its encampment at Raleigh, North Carolina, from the 2d to the 7th of November, 1891, and will instruct that organization, as far as practicable, in all matters relating to military duty. He will proceed to Raleigh at the proper time, and after completing the duty specified, will return to his proper station. The travel enjoined is necessary for the public service.

By command of Major General Schofield:

J. C. KELTON,
Adjutant General.

[Official.]

J. C. GILMORE,

Assistant Adjutant General.

The Charlotte Light Infantry arrived at Raleigh on the afternoon of November 2, and immediately went into camp at the Exposition grounds in tents previously put up for them by the State Guard authorities.

The company consisted of three commissioned officers, three sergeants, three corporals, and twenty-six privates. While in camp they rationed themselves at their own expense and furnished their own blankets, as the State had made no provision for these things.

The company was found to be indifferently set up, and inexact and irregular in the execution of details of whatever kind. Previous to this encampment the company had never made a company or platoon wheel, had never had a guard-mount, and were unfamiliar with most of the important duties of a soldier. The commissioned officers and two of the sergeants were intelligent men and good soldiers, but the rest of the company were almost like recruits. Everyone, however, displayed a creditable interest in the instruction and duty, was sober and well behaved both in and out of camp, and there was not a single breach of discipline that required punishment.

Their clothing and equipment were good and in serviceable condition, though their arms were not as clean as they should have been.

Practical instruction was given them in the details of guard-mount, dress-parade, manual of arms, school of the soldier and company, skirmishing, the various duties of camp, and in the courtesies due to officers. These were under my direct supervision, and at the end of the encampment, on November 6, a marked improvement could be seen in their bearing and in the readiness and comparative precision with which they did everything that was required of them.

The company commander, Captain Taylor, had good control of his men—in fact, more than I had thought possible in a militia company.

The privates were found to be of about the same grade of intelligence as those enlisted in the colored regiments of the Army.

This is the only colored militia company in the State of North Carolina, and I wish to call the attention of the War Department to the kindly feeling with which it is regarded by the authorities of the State Guard.

In an encampment like this, where a great deal is to be learned in a short space of time, the presence of an intelligent non-commissioned officer would have been of great benefit in familiarizing the men with the duties of a soldier.

Respectfully submitted.

J. H. ALEXANDER,
Second Lieutenant Ninth Cavalry.

SERVICE IN AID OF THE CIVIL POWERS.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., April 25, 1891.

COLONEL W. C. JONES,

Commanding Second Regiment, N. C. S. G.,

Wilmington, N. C.

SIR—I beg leave to submit herewith a report of active service recently performed by Company G in this city :

On the night of the 11th instant an Italian by the name of Mocca was brutally murdered in his shop, located on West Trade street. The next morning the police arrested one Brabham, colored, as the perpetrator of the crime, and lodged him in the city prison. He was subsequently taken to the county jail, and regularly committed for trial on the charge of murder. The evidence brought out at the coroner's inquest seemed to fix the commission of the crime very clearly on the prisoner Brabham, and the details of the act were so revolting that public feeling was wrought up to a very high pitch. During the afternoon of that day (the 12th), threats of lynching were frequently and openly made on the public streets of the city, and about sundown it could be easily seen that preparations were going on to carry the threats into execution. Thereupon the Sheriff of the county sent me the following communication:

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA—Mecklenburg County.

CHARLOTTE JAIL, April 12, 1891—6:30 P. M.

To THOS. R. ROBERTSON, Captain of Horner's Nest Riflemen.

DEAR SIR—You will please report with your company to me at the jail for the purpose of assisting me in protecting the prisoners in my custody.

Respectfully,

Z. T. SMITH,
Sheriff of Mecklenburg County.

On receipt of this call from the Sheriff, I telegraphed direct to the Adjutant General, as the representative of the Governor, in the following words :

To GENERAL J. D. GLENN, Adjutant General, Greensboro, N. C.

Sheriff has called on me to guard jail to-night. Lynching threatened. Wire me orders quick.

T. R. ROBERTSON, Captain.

The Adjutant General shortly afterwards replied as follows :

To CAPTAIN T. R. ROBERTSON :

If properly called upon, guard jail. County must pay all expenses. Do not fire except by order of Sheriff.

J. D. GLENN, Adjutant General.

As soon as I received the above telegram from General Glenn, I took command of the company, the members having meantime assembled quietly at the armory, and went immediately to the jail, reporting to the Sheriff with three officers and thirty enlisted men, with a supply of ball cartridges fully adequate to the emergency. The services performed that night consisted in guarding the jail against a threatened attack by a mob of whites, and in clearing the streets, adjacent to the jail, of a riotous assemblage of negroes, who had come together, as they claimed, to assist in preventing the lynching of the murderer Brabham, but who, as a matter of fact, refused to disperse when ordered by the city authorities, and acted in an outrageous and lawless manner, and only left the streets when driven away by the police with drawn pistols, backed up by the military.

I did not find it necessary at any time during the night to order the men to fire. Two or three did fire without orders, but under the circumstances I regarded their conduct as excusable.

The presence of the company at the jail that night, and on the streets in its vicinity, in my judgment prevented bloodshed, and enabled the city and county authorities to preserve the public peace.

At sunrise the next morning the company was marched back to the armory and excused from further duty that day. That night, the 13th, I again reported to the Sheriff, this time with three officers and thirty-four enlisted men. We remained in the jail all night, and were not called upon for any outside work.

From the 14th to the 20th, inclusive, eleven men were on duty each night at the jail; on the night of the 22d, twenty-two men were on duty.

During this entire tour of service the men were prompt and cheerful in the performance of duty, and yielded strict obedience to every order. Their bearing was soldierly in the highest degree, and as their commanding officer I am proud to be able to bear testimony to their irreproachable conduct. Their situation at times was well calculated to test their manhood, but they stood up manfully to their work, and never at any time hesitated or faltered.

In closing this report I desire to place on record the grateful acknowledgments of myself and company to Sheriff Smith and his family for the many acts of hospitality and kindness we received at their hands while guarding the county jail. The Sheriff himself is to be especially commended for his coolness and firmness under very trying and exasperating circumstances.

Very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

THOMAS R. ROBERTSON,

Captain Company G, Second Regiment, N. C. S. G.

[GENERAL ORDERS, No. 3.]

I. It is with profound sorrow that I announce to the State Guard the death of their late Commander-in-Chief, Governor DANIEL G. FOWLE, which occurred suddenly at the Governor's Mansion at thirty minutes past eleven o'clock on the night of the seventh inst.

II. The State mourns the loss of one whose lofty patriotism and unswerving devotion to her interests had won for him the confidence and admiration of her people, and her citizen soldiers will ever hold in constant remembrance his invaluable services and regard for their welfare. Thus has passed away a man of pure life, a Christian soldier, an official of stainless integrity, distinguished by eminent services in the various departments of the State Government.

III. As a tribute of respect to the memory of the deceased, the officers of the State Guard will wear the usual badge of mourning for three months, and on occasions of parade and ceremony all regimental colors will be draped in crepe for the same period.

IV. The officers of the General and Personal staff, as now constituted, who were appointed by the late Commander-in-Chief, will retain their present rank and positions, and be obeyed and respected accordingly.

THOS. M. HOLT,
Governor and Commander in Chief.

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA,
General Headquarters, Adjutant General's Office,
 RALEIGH, May 1st, 1891.

[GENERAL ORDERS, No. 4.]

I. In order that the provisions of Section 3289 of The Code may be complied with, and under authority granted in Section 3257 of The Code, as amended by the Laws of 1887, Colonel A. L. Smith, Inspector General of North Carolina, is hereby ordered to inspect the several companies of the State Guard, at his convenience, for 1891. Due notice of the date appointed for the inspection of each company must be given to commandant of said company, and also to regimental commanders. The results of such inspection shall be reported to this office.

II. In order to determine the efficiency, true condition and standing of each company, as based upon the appearance of the men, the condition of arms and equipments, clothing, armory, books, &c., together with their knowledge of duties, ceremonies, drill and discipline, the following "Inspection Ratings" are hereby established for the guidance of Inspecting Officers, who will rate each company according to its merits:

School of Soldier.....	10
School of Company.....	10
Skirmish Drill.....	10
Discipline.....	10
Condition of Arms and Equipments.....	10
Condition of Clothing.....	10
Condition of Armory.....	10
Books and Papers.....	10
Ceremonies.....	20
Total.....	100

The maximum of which will be 100, and shall be known as the General Average. While each company will be required to parade seventy-five per cent. of its muster-roll at the general inspection, its general standing will not be based entirely upon its percentage of attendance, but upon its "Figure of Efficiency," which is obtained by multiplying the Percentage of Attendance by the General Average. Thus, if the Percentage of Attendance of a company is 90, and its General Average 80, its Figure of Efficiency will be 72.

III. The attention of commanding officers is called to the following instructions from the Inspector General:

"In order that there may be no misunderstanding in future in regard to the Annual Inspection, the following requirements are given on which the military appearance of the companies will be judged: 'Carefully prepared and correct rosters. Percentage of attendance. Arms clean and in good order. Clean shoes. Trousers well-fitting, in good repair, clean, and, when practicable, pressed. Coats clean, made to fit, in good repair, neat about the neck. Knapsack in good order, straps serviceable. Blouses, caps and leggings (clean) in knapsack. The blouse folded and in good order, the cap clean and brasses bright. “At Attention, the men in ranks should stand as prescribed in tactics, heels together, head and eyes to the front, no gazing about, no talking, no unsteadiness.

“Captains should see that no tobacco is used when in ranks.”

By order of the Commander-in-Chief:

JAMES D. GLENN,
Adjutant General.

W. L. Kistler, Second Lieutenant, Company B, Fourth Regiment, with rank from April, 1891, vice Motz, resigned.

T. M. Kimberly, First Lieutenant, Company F, Fourth Regiment, with rank from March 20, 1891, vice Cowan, term expired.

John J. L. Taylor, First Lieutenant, Charlotte Light Infantry, with rank from March 2, 1891, vice Butler, term expired.

III. It is with deep sorrow the Commander-in-Chief announces to the State Guard the death of Major W. L. Faison, of the Second Regiment, which occurred at Clinton, North Carolina, April 18, 1891. By his death the State has lost a beloved and respected citizen and the Guard a most useful and valuable member, who proved his devotion by long and continuous service.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief:

JAMES D. GLENN,
Adjutant General.

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA,
General Headquarters, Adjutant General's Office,
RALEIGH, May 27, 1891.

[GENERAL ORDERS, No. 6.]

I. There will be an encampment of the First Brigade North Carolina State Guard at Wrightsville, N. C., from July 17 to 24 inclusive. The several regiments and troop of cavalry composing the Brigade, together with the officers of the general and brigade staffs, will appear at camp in heavy marching order on Friday evening, July 17, and immediately upon arrival report to the Adjutant General for duty.

II. The regiments will have separate camps and guard lines, and regimental commanders will be held strictly responsible for the work and discipline of their own commands, but the general command will devolve upon the Brigade Commander, who will prescribe in orders the hours and calls of service and the duties to be performed, the military exercises to be executed and practiced in camp, which shall consist in theoretical instruction for officers and non-commissioned officers, and practical instruction in camp duties, guard duty, skirmish drill, the school of the battalion, rifle practice and heavy gun drill ; but no reviews will be authorized except by orders from these headquarters.

III. The camp will be known as Camp Fowlé, in honor of the late Commander-in-Chief, who did so much to secure a permanent camp for the State Guard.

IV. The movement of each company or detachment will be directed by general or special orders to be issued hereafter. During this encampment the Scotland Neck Mounted Riflemen (dismounted) are hereby temporarily attached to the First Regiment, Colonel J. E. Wood commanding.

V. Troops will be furnished transportation by the State. The vouchers for such service must be made out on blank certificates supplied from this office. Transportation will be allowed regimental bands and company musicians (not to exceed two musicians or drummers for a company), also to one caterer and two servants to each company, to each regimental headquarters, and to each regimental band. Field and staff officers, with their servants, may be transported with the company at or nearest their place of residence, or on single tickets, as may be specially directed ; and company commanders are required to report such persons in their certificates of transportation, but are strictly charged not to furnish transportation for anyone not provided for in this order.

VI. Regimental commanders will ascertain and report to the Adjutant General as soon as possible the number of men for whom transportation will be required for their respective regiments. Company commanders will make requisition upon the station agent at point of departure for transportation for their respective commands, using therefor the blank forms supplied from this office.

VII. Companies must attend with at least sixty per cent. of their muster-rolls, and a failure to do this may be the cause of a company being deprived of the annual appropriation.

VIII. Company commanders will take no enlisted men to camp who cannot remain during the entire encampment. They will ascertain this fact before furnishing transportation to encampment, as leave of absence to return home prior to close of encampment will be granted only upon Surgeon's certificate of disability, or by reason of serious illness or death in the officer's or soldier's family ; and company commanders will be held responsible for all tickets issued.

IX. Floored tents, straw for bedding, fuel, water, ice and medicine will be provided, as well as ample hospital accommodations. Troops must furnish their own rations, the military fund being inadequate for such purpose.

X. Company commanders will see that the men carry as little baggage as possible ; boxes and trunks will not be allowed in the company streets. No member of the Guard will be allowed to wear citizen's clothes during encampment, and officers and men found disobeying this will be liable to arrest.

XI. Troops are charged to use the tents and other public property in their possession with the greatest care. Tents must not be marked, defaced or abused, and all commanding officers will be held to a strict accountability for any injury to such property.

XII. The Brigade Commander will report to this office all commissioned officers who may not attend encampment, with all the facts regarding the cause of their absence. He will also forward to these headquarters in the field a "Consolidated Daily Report" of the troops under his command, and at the close of encampment will forward to this office the "Morning Reports" of regiments.

XIII. The Quartermaster General is charged with laying out the camp, erecting the tents, quartering the troops, issuing such supplies as are furnished by the State, and providing the necessary conveniences for the use and comfort of the troops. All property is in his charge, and he will see that it is not damaged or abused while in use. He will enter upon the active discharge of his duties at such time as he may be hereafter directed. Special orders will be issued by regimental commanders directing the Quartermasters of their respective regiments and a detail of two men from each company to report to the Quartermaster General at Camp Fowle at such time as the latter officer shall direct.

XIV. The Inspector General will repair to Camp Fowle at least one day previous to encampment for the purpose of inspecting and reporting upon the preparatory condition of the camps, and during encampment will carefully inspect and report upon the conduct of the same; all reports to be made direct to the Adjutant General.

XV. The Surgeon General is charged with the care of the sick, the hospital, and sanitary condition of the camp and surroundings. He will enter upon active duty during encampment, and all Surgeons, Assistant Surgeons and Hospital Stewards will immediately upon their arrival at camp report to him for orders and instructions.

XVI. The Chief of Staff is charged with the execution of this order, and to that end will enter upon active duty in making all necessary arrangements for the encampment, and will have a general supervision of the conduct and government of the same. All bills must be approved by him before being paid, and he will render a detailed statement of all expenses incurred and make a full report to the Commander-in-Chief.

XVII. Thorough instruction in rifle practice being one of the objects of this encampment, regimental commanders are required to make such details at such hours as they may be directed to do by Colonel B. Cameron, Inspector General of Small Arms Practice. They will also make such details as they may be directed for instruction in "heavy gun" drill.

XVIII. The encampment will be visited by the Commander-in-Chief, and the troops will be reviewed by him on such day as may hereafter be announced.

XIX. While strict discipline must be enforced, ample time will be allowed for recreation and enjoyment. Nothing will be left undone to secure the comfort and contribute to the reasonable pleasure of the men consistent with the object of this encampment. Good order must be maintained at all times, and to that end all officers are strictly charged to have anyone arrested who may be acting in an unsoldierly or ungentlemanly manner. Every member of the Guard, it is hoped, will take pride and pleasure in doing his duty faithfully and well towards making this encampment a success in every particular, a credit to the soldiers of North Carolina, and a thing of real value to the State.

XX. The First Regiment Virginia Volunteers having been invited to hold their encampment at same time and place as our own, it is earnestly hoped that all officers and men will spare no pains to make their visit as pleasant as possible, and thus strengthen and cement the bond of friendship that has ever existed between the citizen-soldiers of the two States.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief :

JAMES D. GLENN,
Adjutant General.

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA,

RALEIGH, June 29th, 1891.

[GENERAL ORDERS, No. 8.]

The Rules of Official Etiquette are not simply arbitrary regulations established without reason, but are founded on the experience of years, among the most self-respecting and honorable of men. When officers and men are thrown together, at times, under trying conditions when orders are quickly given and prompt obedience demanded, personal irritation is apt to occur, and if the laws of courtesy be allowed to be laid aside, serious misunderstandings may arise. To avoid this, civility in personal intercourse and in official correspondence is rendered obligatory by the customs of the service and by the regulations.

The manner in which military courtesy is observed is the touchstone applied to officers and enlisted men, and decides at once whether they be disciplined soldiers or simply uniformed and uninformed amateurs; the attention of all concerned is therefore called to the following on this subject :

GENERAL RULES.

Officers salute each other and enlisted men salute officers, on all military occasions, and in armories at all times, even if neither be in uniform ; the junior officer or the enlisted man saluting first.

When under arms, armed with the sword or sabre drawn, the salute is present sword or sabre ; armed with the rifle or carbine, sergeant's (rifle) salute is executed ; when not under arms, or armed with sword or sabre not drawn, the salute is rendered with the hand.

In saluting with the hand, the left is used when the officer passes by the right of the saluter ; in all other cases, or if mounted, the salute is given with the right hand. Officers salute with the left hand only when the right hand is engaged.

Before saluting at a halt the position of attention is to be assumed ; when meeting or passing an officer, the position of a soldier on the march ; in either case the coat should be buttoned and, if smoking, the cigar or pipe should be removed from the mouth.

When addressing or being addressed by a superior commissioned officer, the officer or enlisted man halts, if not already at a halt, faces and salutes the superior officer ; at the close of the interview or of the report, before parting, a salute is again rendered.

When passing, the salute is given six paces from the officer to be saluted, and in rendering it the hand is not dropped or the sword recovered until the salute has been acknowledged or the party or person saluted has, or has been passed. Exception : Salute of first sergeant at dress parade, and the salute when passing the reviewing officer.

When officers remain in or about the same place salutes are not repeated, but a respectful conduct is maintained until they leave.

Prisoners on parole or under guard are not privileged to salute.

In the trenches and on out-post duty troops render no honors, but personal salutes between officers and enlisted men are not omitted, unless they cause exposure to danger.

On fatigue duty the officers and non-commissioned officers in charge salute ; the men do not cease work to salute unless spoken to or they are by themselves, some distance from their party, and without implements in their hands.

Officers inside of a house or a tent, although visible from the outside, are not saluted.

Any mark of attention shown by an enlisted man to an officer must be acknowledged by the latter.

At a reception out-doors, it is proper to uncover if the person receiving be uncovered. At an official reception or social occasion in-doors officers uncover, though in full uniform.

Officers in full dress at dances, receptions, dinners, etc., should wear their swords ; while actually dancing or sitting at table, the sword may be laid aside.

Enlisted men address officers by the grade the latter hold ; officers addressing other officers do the same, except when addressing a lieutenant, to address whom as "Mister" custom has sanctioned. Abbreviations of titles, as, for instance, "Cap." for captain, "Maje" for major, etc., are highly unmilitary and an indication of the worst of bad manners.

When several officers are in company the right should be accorded to the senior in walking or riding ; when entering or leaving a house or camp, and it be necessary, the junior should secure admission or passage for the party ; in entering a room the senior precedes, in departing the junior of the party leads when the senior has indicated his desire to leave ; juniors take seats when the senior is seated, and rise with him.

SPECIAL RULES FOR OUT-DOORS.

For the purpose of paying honors the hall and drill-rooms in an armory, and a porch, or veranda, are considered as out-doors.

A mounted officer or enlisted man before addressing a superior officer not mounted, dismounts.

An enlisted man in command of an armed detachment brings it to carry arms when, at a halt or on the march, he meets an officer, and then personally salutes the latter ; if the detachment be not armed its commander only salutes, bringing it, however, to attention, if at rest or route step. When passing sentinels and his party is armed, he brings the same to carry arms, and having passed, to right shoulder or support arms.

An officer in command of an armed detachment brings it to carry arms when, at a halt or on the march, he meets the commanding or a general officer, and he alone salutes ; if the detachment be not armed its commanding officer salutes, bringing it to attention if it be at rest or route step. Salutes paid to him by passing officers and enlisted men, and by sentinels, he acknowledges simply by a personal salute.

Armed troops passing a guard (not sentinel), a general officer or a body of armed troops, will be brought to carry arms and the commanding officers (and if the troops consist of more than one battalion the battalion commanders) will salute the guard, general officer, or each other, but all officers will salute the colors as they pass them ; if, however, one body of the troops be at halt, it will be formed into line and brought to present arms. If the troops carry no colors or are on a regular march only the commanding officers thereof salute each other, bringing their commands first to attention if at rest or as they should be on a march at route step. On drill and during formation no salutes are rendered.

In camp, or at an inspection in camp, the tents and company streets are the company quarters, and when an officer enters the quarters the non-commissioned officer in charge, or the first man who perceives him, salutes, giving first the command "Attention," which is executed and maintained by all until the officer leaves the quarters; the attention is, in this case, the salute.

The regulations require that every officer and enlisted man, not in ranks, when passing the National colors, carried by troops or placed on the stacks of arms on the color line, or when they pass him, should salute them. The salute is rendered as already described if armed with rifle or drawn sabre; by uncovering if not thus armed.

SPECIAL RULES FOR IN-DOORS.

For the purpose of paying honors the meeting rooms of an organization are considered as in-doors.

Coming in-doors the salute consists in uncovering unless the officer or soldier entering should be under arms or on armed duty, in which case he salutes as if out-of-doors.

In quarters, or anywhere in-doors, soldiers are supposed to be uncovered as they would be in their civilian homes.

When an officer enters the quarters or place in-doors where there are enlisted men, the one who notices him first gives the command "Attention," upon which all come to attention, and the senior non-commissioned officer joins the officer; the position of attention is held until the officer who acknowledges the same with the hand salute has left. If there should be anyone covered he uncovers at the command "Attention," unless he be under arms and on armed duty, in which case he comes to attention only. Should the officer remain in the place he uncovers unless under arms. In the case of an officer so remaining, the men resume their employments, and come again to attention at the command of the non-commissioned officer attending the officer when the latter is about to leave, and the officer then covers if uncovered and returns the salute. When seated at meal, the men do not rise but interrupt the meal and preserve silence until their mark of attention is returned by the officer.

By command of the Commander-in-Chief:

JAMES D. GLENN,
Adjutant General.
